

British Periodicals I-IV

“These impressive, unique collections will be true assets for any historical collection. They offer excellent searching capabilities, metadata and access points”

S Markgren, (Purchase College, New York, US) CHOICE

Continuing a tradition of comprehensive full-run coverage for popular periodicals, this resource offers facsimile page images and searchable full text for nearly 500 British periodicals published from the seventeenth century through to the twentieth.

By providing digital access to the key primary source serials from this period, British Periodicals opens up research to a much wider audience. This uniquely powerful, multidisciplinary database gives students and researchers a clear pathway to an exhaustive body of content previously unavailable online. All of this material is available in page image format with fully searchable text. Users can filter results by article type and download articles as either PDFs or JPEG page images. Each facsimile page from Collections I-III is available in high-resolution grayscale, providing scholars with an authentic and nuanced record of the printed source. Collections III and IV, which extend the program through the twentieth century, introduce full color images where color was present in the original volumes, in order to maximise the value of these highly visual publications.

SEE BRITISH PERIODICALS FOR YOURSELF

To request a FREE TRIAL please go to proquest.com/go/trials

FOR MORE INFORMATION visit proquest.com/go/britishperiodicals or contact us – proquest.com/contact.

■ British Periodicals is available in four separate collections that present an unrivaled record of more than three centuries of British history and culture.

BRITISH PERIODICALS COLLECTION I consists of more than 160 journals that comprise the ProQuest microfilm collection Early British Periodicals, the equivalent of 5,238 printed volumes containing approximately 3.1 million pages. Topics covered include literature, philosophy, history, science, the fine arts, and the social sciences.

BRITISH PERIODICALS COLLECTION II consists of more than 300 journals from the ProQuest microfilm collections English Literary Periodicals and British Periodicals in the Creative Arts together with additional titles, amounting to almost 3 million pages. Topics covered include literature, music, art, drama, archaeology, and architecture.

BRITISH PERIODICALS COLLECTION III extends the scope of the series by focusing on the first half of the twentieth century. The titles are from the prestigious stable of illustrated periodicals known as the "Great Eight" in British publishing history. They are among the foremost popular periodicals of the period and were highly influential in their mix of news/politics, miscellany, art, photography, literature and comedy/satire, while launching the careers of many leading artists/illustrators of the age. With the increased use of illustration, photography and colour in magazines of this period, British Periodicals III becomes a compelling collection for research and teaching in the areas of bibliographic and art history, while reinforcing the broad cross-disciplinary value of the British Periodicals series.

BRITISH PERIODICALS COLLECTION IV launched in September 2015 and continues the expansion into the twentieth century, with particular strengths in the areas of politics (notably socialism and the labour movement), international affairs and conflict, the arts, rural/sporting history, humour/illustration, travel and empire, and family/teen publications. Upon completion, the collection will offer complete runs of ten major publications from the period, serving many other areas of teaching and research in twentieth-century topics, such as social history, journalism history, and gender studies. The titles will be: Answers to Correspondents (1888-1965), The Field (1850-2005), Halfpenny Marvel (1893-1922), The Highway (1907-1959), Humorist (1922-1940), Picture Show (1919-1960), Top Spot (1958-1960), Tribune (1937-2005), War Weekly (1939-1941), Wide World Magazine (1898-1965).

CROSS-SEARCHING ON PROQUEST PLATFORM

Institutions with access to ProQuest's edition of the Wellesley Index to Victorian Periodicals can instantly cross-search Wellesley indexing with the full text from the British Periodicals interface. Crucially, the addition of Wellesley also makes it possible to search for instances of a word or phrase in a given author's contributions to periodicals even where these originally appeared unsigned or under a pseudonym. Altogether, British Periodicals provides full text to all 43 important Wellesley titles.

In addition, institutions with access to other historical periodical resources from ProQuest, such as American Periodicals and Periodicals Archive Online, may search across all of this content simultaneously, querying potentially thousands of historical periodicals with a single search.

FOR INFORMATION on more Historical Collections products available from ProQuest, please visit proquest.com/go/history

