

Historical Periodicals Collection

300 years of historical events, social movements, and cultural trends through periodicals

This resource offers a wide range of historical periodicals from the 17th to the early 21st century, including full-text journals and bibliographic indexes, essential for research in the humanities and social sciences. It provides key primary and secondary sources for understanding historical events, social movements, scientific progress, and cultural shifts.

From Benjamin Franklin's General Magazine to The New Statesman, this collection provides a lens into pivotal eras, landmark events, and influential voices that shaped history.

COMPREHENSIVE COVERAGE

Access thousands of full-text journals from 1741-2006 and indexing from 1665-present, with global and multilingual content, covering American, British, and international perspectives.

MULTIDISCIPLINARY INSIGHTS

Supports research across the arts, humanities, and social sciences, with strengths in, for example, history, sociology, political science, literature, and business/economics.

EFFICIENT RESEARCH

Extensive indexing and platform tools provide quick access to specific time periods, events, and themes, supporting focused academic inquiry.

about.proquest.com

To talk to the sales department, contact us at
1-800-779-0137 or sales@proquest.com.

ProQuest®
Part of Clarivate

American Periodicals Series

American Periodicals Series offers key American magazines and journals spanning over 200 years, from colonial times through the mid-20th century. The digitized collection includes titles that reflect significant historical moments, such as the transition to independence, westward expansion, and the Civil War. It provides general interest magazines, regional publications, and groundbreaking journals that shaped American society.

Major titles include: Benjamin Franklin's General Magazine | Medical Repository | Vanity Fair | The Dial | Puck | McClure's

American Periodicals from the Center for Research Libraries

American Periodicals from the Center for Research Libraries contains a wide range of American periodicals, covering content from the 19th century to the late-20th century. This collection includes journals on a variety of subjects such as labor, science, and literature. Created in partnership between ProQuest and the Center for Research Libraries (CRL), this resource brings digital access to a broad range of American periodicals.

Major titles include: American Annual of Photography | The Craftsman | Electrical Age | Hampton's Magazine | The Labor Journal | Popular Science | Woman's Protest Against Woman Suffrage

Periodicals Archive Online (PAO)

Periodicals Archive Online (PAO) connects researchers to a rich digital archive of international journals in the Humanities and Social Sciences. Covering over two centuries, it provides access to both historically significant and hard-to-find journals from 1802 to 2005. This collection supports a wide range of academic disciplines and includes peer-reviewed scholarly articles, as well as carefully selected non-scholarly titles.

Major titles include: The Spectator | New Statesman | Sight & Sound | Maclean's | New Leader | History Today | Harper's | Philosophy Today

Periodicals Index Online (PIO)

Periodicals Index Online (PIO) provides a multidisciplinary index to journal backfiles in the arts, humanities, and social sciences from 1665 to the present. Complete runs of titles are indexed, from first issues to recent times. It simplifies the discovery of primary and secondary sources, allowing users to search across three centuries of periodical archives. This index includes over 10,000 journals, providing an invaluable tool for literature reviews and scholarship.

C19: The Nineteenth Century Index

C19: The Nineteenth Century Index delivers scholars an all-inclusive bibliographic resource for 19th-century research, offering access to over 30 million records. This index includes a wide range of materials, such as books, newspapers, and periodical articles, and covers subjects from literature and history to law and political science. It serves as an essential resource for discovering primary sources from the 19th century.

Historical Periodicals Collection is included as part of ProQuest One History

about.proquest.com

To talk to the sales department, contact us at
1-800-779-0137 or sales@proquest.com.